Risk control resources to help you better understand and manage your exposures.

Dedicated CNA Risk Control consultants stay on top of industry trends and the emerging issues that affect businesses. We provide webinars, newsletters and on-site visits that help you address risk issues, such as nanotechnology and privacy and computer network security.

Our School of Risk Control Excellence offers additional learning opportunities to help you and your team identify and reduce exposures that may cause loss. We also provide a wealth of information covering relevant issues like reducing manual handling and repetitive stress injuries, environmental health and safety hazards, and solutions for electronic components distributors and their manufacturer-suppliers.

Visit the CNA Risk Control Web site at www.cna.com/riskcontrol for additional information.

Dedicated claim service.

Should you ever have a claim, you can be sure there will be dedicated CNA Claim Service representatives ready to assist. With industry-specific Return-to-Work programs, product liability certification and litigation training, CNA Claim representatives understand the fast pace of your industry and the importance of getting claims resolved quickly, accurately and fairly. We deliver our full resources to support NEDA members across the country.

Strength and resources dedicated to your success.

CNA backs its commitment to protecting electronic component companies like yours with the financial strength and stability of a national carrier rated "A" by A.M. Best. We provide property and casualty products and services supported by focused expertise and nearly $60 billion in assets.

Our competitive coverages, local underwriting, risk control and claim expertise, along with our deep understanding of the industry can help you manage risks and reduce costs. And with more than 100 years of experience, CNA has helped companies like yours protect their businesses and their reputations for many years.
